1	GIM, not cadastral ... I struggled to stay engaged.	5/19/2016 9:43 AM
2	particularly the review of secondary research sources	5/19/2016 7:34 AM
3	As per a previous complaint, I am not seeing all the slides (I saw slide 10 and 15 only in Ken's) and none of the screen work for Jack's presentation.	5/19/2016 7:34 AM
4	The information was worth while but I feel that due to the volume of material it probably should have been two separate webinars. It felt like some of the topics were a little glanced over due to time constraints.	5/18/2016 4:06 PM
5	If a topic engages you, times moves along rather quickly, and this webinar felt like it was 15 min. in length.	5/18/2016 3:24 PM
6	Engaged, yes - but some of the material was rather basic. With that said it is always hard to know the knowledge of your audience	5/18/2016 2:26 PM
7	somewhat	5/18/2016 2:25 PM

3	Alternat research is always cool to know - those liks will be a great resource	5/18/2016 2:47 PM
4	The content was good, but I thought the webinar was going to be about researching survey projects - not just research at the RO.	5/18/2016 2:46 PM

1	For the most part they were, my question about the cost of deeds being cheaper on one system, not on the other was not answered other than "it is a disbursement" Not really an answer when all systems are accessing the same provincial database. Rosco should be the same price as terranet and as Geowarehouse...why is it not? Maybe that would have been better wording.	5/19/2016 11:37 AM
2	Sometimes	5/19/2016 8:27 AM
3	The issue of exorbitant costs to do a proper LRO search for purposes of a legal survey under Teranet's/Service Ontario's new fee schedule were glossed over (as in previous forums) with the well "it's only disbursements" answer is not (in my view) an answer.	5/19/2016 7:34 AM
4	The ones that were asked clearly.	5/18/2016 4:25 PM

1	But I did not see them, See comments for #1. Note: I work for a fairly large corporation and so I don't think the technical issues are related to a lack of sufficient technology/software/bandwidth, etc.	5/19/2016 7:34 AM

5	Our means of research are always evolving	5/18/2016 3:24 PM
6	Again - the webinar was only about RO research and there was not anything new. We watched it on the projector and had our 4 researchers attend, and it was disappointing based on the title. It should have been titled "Registry Office research for survey projects" - and the RO research is pretty basic compared to the other research we need to do.	5/18/2016 2:46 PM
