General Information

Under direction of the Premiers, governments across Canada have been working with regulators to strengthen the labour mobility provisions of the Agreement on Internal Trade (AIT).

On December 5th, 2008, Trade Ministers met and approved the legal text of an amended Chapter 7 on Labour Mobility, as recommended by Labour Market Ministers. With the formal signing off, the amended text came into force on April 1, 2009.

Under the amended AIT, any worker certified for an occupation shall, upon application, be certified for that occupation by each other Party which regulates that occupation without any requirement for any material additional training, experience, examinations or assessments as part of that certification process.

The Association of Ontario Land Surveyors has determined that land surveyors who are licensed in a Canadian province and licensed Canada Lands Surveyors will only be required to complete one jurisdictional examination.

Making Application

A land surveyor licensed in a Canadian province or a licensed Canada Lands Surveyor (the candidate) who wishes to be licensed as an Ontario Land Surveyor must complete the application form (attached) and arrange to have the home association provide a “good standing letter” directly to the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors. The candidate must hold a license that is not encumbered or restricted in any way within the home association.

The candidate may choose to become an associate member of the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors (see eligibility for associate membership) but this is not a requirement to write the jurisdictional examination. The advantage of becoming an associate member is that it ensures that the candidate receives current information, such as the Ontario Professional Surveyor Magazine, from the AOLS.

Once the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors has received the appropriate fees, the application form and the “good standing” letter from the home association, the candidate is eligible to write the jurisdictional examination. The Association of Ontario Land Surveyors will confirm the date, time and location to write the jurisdictional exam. The jurisdictional examination shall be offered within thirty business days of The Association of Ontario Land Surveyors receiving the application.

Writing the Jurisdictional Examination

Candidates will be examined on their knowledge and comprehension of the Ontario legal systems and statute law as it applies to surveying in Ontario. The jurisdictional examination will include practical questions on survey requirements, legalities, problems, and possibilities likely to be encountered in surveys of land in Ontario including, but not limited to condominium surveys, urban and rural subdivision surveys, pipeline and right-of-way surveys, and real property reports. Particular emphasis will be placed on the evaluation of survey evidence as it relates to the practice of land surveying in Ontario.

The Jurisdictional Examination is a closed-book exam and shall last no longer than half-a-day.

The price to write the Jurisdictional Examination is $150 plus GST.

Syllabus and Reading List

Candidates will be expected to demonstrate a thorough knowledge of the surveying profession in Ontario which may include:

1. Scope of the surveying profession in Ontario;
2. Professional responsibilities of Ontario Land Surveyors;
3. Ethical basis of professional practice and an understanding of survey systems in Ontario; and
4. Current affairs of the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors.

Candidates will be examined on their knowledge and comprehension of the Canadian and Ontario legal systems and the statute law as it applies to surveying in Ontario. In particular, candidates are expected to have a complete understanding of all of the statutes contained in section E:3:1 and E:3:2 in the current Articling Student Handbook including recent amendments.

Candidates will be questioned on survey requirements, legalities, problems, and possibilities of a practical nature likely to be encountered in surveys of land in Ontario. Emphasis will be placed on situations requiring some degree of discretion and professional judgment.

Jurisdictional Examination Results

Candidates must receive a mark of 65% or higher in order to pass the Jurisdictional Examination.

The Association shall attempt to provide the results of the Jurisdictional Examination within ten business days of the exam being written.

If the candidate passes the Jurisdictional Examination, then the candidate is eligible to be registered as an Ontario Land Surveyor.

If the candidate does not pass the Jurisdictional Examination, the candidate may appeal his mark in writing to the Registrar. An appeal fee will apply. As of January 2009, the appeal fee is $100 plus GST.

If a candidate does not achieve a pass mark in his or her first attempt at the Jurisdictional Examination, the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors may require the candidate to wait a period of time before attempting the written jurisdictional examination again. The first waiting period shall not exceed 30 calendar days. The waiting period following the second and subsequent attempts shall not exceed 90 calendar days.

If the host association determines that an applicant does not have the required level of jurisdictional knowledge to successfully complete the requirements then experience may be the way to gain that knowledge. The onus is on the applicant to gain the required knowledge by whatever means he or she chooses. The onus is not on the host association to define a period or type of training although the host association may make recommendations.
